> The annual public meeting of the United Presbyterian Student's Theological Hall Missionary Society has been held in Queen street Hall, Edinburgh. Dr. Dudgeon, of the London Missionary Society, congratulated the Church on having at last seen its way to send a missionary to China. The great want in China was that the missionary societies should be more distributed, but that individuals should be concentrated. Mission stations should be centres of light-seminaries, so to speak : for though all the missionaries in the world were to go to China they would not suffice to convert that country. That must be done by the Chinese themselves. The doctor went on to speak of the characteristics of the Chinese, their filial reverence, their patience, sobriety, frugality, induetry, and their high civilisation. The two foreign evils in Ohina were Roman Catholicism and the opium trade. He saw no reason why it was exactly like Buddhism, the popular coolies, religion in China, but for the fact of its foreign connection and political aims. Denouncing the opium trade, he said that we deliberately inflicted ourges on China from a selfish—apprehension of essible evils to our own country. Missions had not been a failure in China, but a great success. more especially the medical missions.

The writer argues that at present in Colonies like Caylon; Mauritius, and Jamaica, the authorities are really the opponents of all progress and that the leading classes of the public are far better able to manage the affairs of the Colony; and he instances the railway question in Ceylon as a case in point. He considers it would be far better to establish responsible representative institutions, but giving votes only to those whose position and intelligence really qualified them to exercise the franchise. The answer obviously is that a Council or Assembly so elected would not be a representative institution at all, so far as the bulk is concerned. And there is another difficulty in effecting any reform in the constitution of the Ceylon Legislature. The Home Government is jealous almost to absurdity of the interests of the natives, and would never consent to a measure which would practically throw the whole power of Government into the hands of the downant class .- Ceylon Times.

A telegraphic summary has been received home of the news by the Cape mail to the 6th harch. Intelligence had been received at Cape Town from the Transvani Republic that scenes of confusion had occurred in the Volksrand upon the refusal of that assembly to consider President Burgers's programme of reforms:-The House insisted upon the maintenance of the freedom of the Republic." This seems to mean that the President's proposal of union' with the British Colonies was rejected. The telegram adds:—"Rumours have been current that Sir Theophilus Shepstone's life has been

An important meeting of representatives of employers and workmen in the cotton manufacturing districts has been beld in Manchester, in support of the agitation for the repeal of the Indian import duties on cotton goods and yarns. On the motion of Mr. R. Haworth, seconded by Mr. Kilner, it was resolved,-" That this meeting, although lamenting the distress of our Indian fellow-anticote, and the strain upon the revenues of India caused by famines, does not accept these facts or any other Indian financial exigency as a justification for the continuance of a protective duty injurious alike to the Indian population and the cotton trade of Great

A matter of no ordinary importance to persons afflicted with peopliarity of feature was some under the consideration of the Birming. ham Watch Committee. The attention of the committee was called by one of the town councillors present to the fact that there was a man going about Birmingham with an extraordinarily large nose, and who was constantly followed by a crowd of boys. The man became irritated at being the object of this curiosity, and had thrown several large stones at the boys. It was suggested that the committee should direct a police-constable in plain elothes elothes to follow the man and protect him from insult. The chief officer of police promised to take the pecessary steps, and it is to be hoped that no time will be lost in HOR comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance cises for students of a most instructive nature.

Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given, the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not reviously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore characterized Chinese publications.

the work is so complete, that a reference

THE RESTORATION.

The following is from a piece of newspaper bound up in a Riblo, dated 1621, in my posand Prayers at every Parish Church, for the Precious blord of our late pious Soverain King Charles the first of ever glorious memory : but also by public dragging those oudous Carcases of Oliver Cromwell, Henry Ireton, and Jon Bradeow to Tiburn. On Monday night Cromwell and Ireton in two several Carts were digged up on Saturday last, and the next morning Bradshaw; to-day they were drawn on Sledges to Tiburn, all the way (as before from Westminster) the universal outcry of people went along with them. When these their Carcasses were at Tiburo they were pull'd out of their Coffines and hang'd at the several angles of that Triple Tree, where they hung till the Sun was set; and which owes, where his borse corvetting threw his his own time. I believed him too vain and ground Jorusalem, by Captain Warren, R.E. cursed Highness out of the Sandle just under selfish, and too low in morals and unrethe Gallowes (as if he had been turned off the strained in temper, to turn out a really great Ladder), the Speciators then observing the man when his day of action came. There was Brougham, wincing under a newspaper criticism, and playing the fool among silly women. There was Jeffrey flirting with clever-women in long succession. There was Bulweron sofa, sparking and languishing among a set o female votaries-be and they dizoned out nerfumed, and presenting the nearest picture to a scraclio to be seen on British ground-only the difference of hauteur of the lord of the harem being absent. There was poor Campbell the poet, obtruding his sentimentalities. midet a quivering apprehension of making himself, ridiculous. He darfed out of our house, and never came again, because, after warning, he sat down, in a room full of people (all authors, as it happened) on a low chair of my nunt's which went very easily on easters, and which carried him back to the wall and rebounded, of course making everybody laugh. Off went poor Campbell in a huff; and, well-as I had long known him, I amused by her fame, but oftener annoyed—at never saw him again; and I was not very sorry, for his sentimentality was too soft, and his craving for praise too morbid to let him be an agreeable companion. On accasion of the catastrophe, he came with about forty authors one morning, to sign a petition Parliament for an International copyright law. Then there was Babbage-less utterly dependent on opinion than some people suppose: but still harping so much on the subject as to warrant the severe judgment current in regard to his vanity.
